

Blogger, Writer & Content Creator – Remote

Description

Are you a talented blogger who can wrap your head around pretty much every medium and subject matter?

Do you also like your tech, and particularly the wonderful platform that over 30% of the web calls home, including this site and pretty much all of our customers' sites?

And would you like to become one of the leading voices in the WordPress web development community by joining the WPMU DEV team as a full-time writer and content creator for our blog?

Well, that's great, because we have at least one opening to do that, full time, from anywhere in the world, as an ongoing staff member (with plenty of benefits!), as of, well, today.

Responsibilities

- Writing about, illustrating and creating videos regarding all things WordPress
- Doing it so well that your work eclipses every other WP industry site out there
- Being part of our dynamic community, coming to WordCamps with us, having fun
- Thoroughly enjoying yourself

Qualifications

- Perfect, clear, engaging English that's both a pleasure to roll through and super easy to read
- Experience in blogging, ideally with a technical bent (although you don't need to be a coder)
- Ambition, keenness (we like keen) and a ceaseless desire for engagement and traffic
- Independence where you do not need an editor and take responsibility for the quality of your work

Job Benefits

- Give you time and support you need to create brilliant posts (we only ask for 2 per week!)
- Pay you a very competitive rate (USD) along with 20 days paid leave per year and tonnes of other benefits
- Provide you with the opportunity to work from absolutely anywhere in the world
- Not bother you with more than 2 (ok, maybe 3) meetings a week, keeping them short and awesome ?

Employment Type

Full Time

Beginning of employment

Immediately

Working Hours

40 hours per week, days/time is flexible
